WIND AND HIGH WATER PRINCIPLE DAMAGE IN WEEKEND STORM HERE

Bethel and the surrounding towns escaped with little damage from a storm Saturday night that caused millions of dollars damage and the loss of many lives in the northeastern states. Local damage was limited to roads and culverts although wind damage was heavy in other parts of the state and several buildings in Oxford County were unroofed. Communities in this section were without electricity for five hours Sunday forenoon.

As the Androscoggin River rose Sunday, motors were removed in Richard Davis' sawmill near Alder River bridge and booms were placed to keep the logs in the mill yard. During the late afternoon the water rose rapidly until it was about two feet deep at the bridge. Many automobiles were pushed or towed through flooded sections although the greater number went slowly under their own power. The road was blocked at the lower Mill Brook bridge and traffic was routed over Lover's Lane and Mill Hill. At Pleasant River, West Bethel, cars were towed through the high water.

Sunday morning Main Street was flooded between Phillip Brook and Mechanic Streets as the brook overflowed the culvert, and Mason Street was under water for some distance at the section by the brook.

The high point here was reached about 9 p.m., and is said to be the highest since the March 1938 flood.

The doctor and his family plan to remain in Bethel, at least for some time.

Since coming to Bethel in 1944, Dr Kneeland has built up a large practice in this community and his friends anticipate equal success in his added venture.

PARENT-TEACHER MEMBERS WITNESS MUSICAL PREVIEW

There was a meeting of the P. T. A. Tuesday evening at the Community Room. The membership committee, with Olive Luray as chairman, reported a very successful membership campaign. Also on the committee are Mrs John Gilman, Mrs Glenn Murphy, Mrs Jay Willard, Mrs Alton Carroll and Mrs Josephine Whitman.

A preview of the show "Musical Moments" was given by grammar school students. This musical will be presented December 14 at the William Bingham Gymnasium at 8 o'clock.

The safety patrol of fourth grade students has been reorganized, and raincoats have been ordered. It was voted to send the ten students on the safety patrol on a trip at the end of the season. It was also voted to buy an approval 20 quart capacity electric mixing machine for the hot lunches. There are now 200 pupils being fed hot lunches. The fourth grade won the attendance banner. Louis Thibodeau of Stephens High School gave an interesting and informative talk on "Problems of Education."

The next P. T. A. meeting will be a Christmas program with a Christmas tree and carols. All members are asked to bring a used toy, and a new present wrapped and marked for boy or girl with approximate grade. The hostesses will be Rita Davis and Phyllis Dock.

$1,000,000 INCREASE IN AUTO TAX COLLECTIONS PREDICTED

Special state taxes collected each year from Maine motorists will jump by at least $1,000,000 because of the 1950 increase in motor vehicle ownership, according to Leroy T Snowdon, Executive Secretary of the Maine Petroleum Industries Committee.

His computation is based on preliminary estimates of 1950 car, bus and truck registrations recently issued by the U S Bureau of Public Roads.

"Without any increase in present tax rates, the increase in vehicle ownership expected during 1950 should mean a 6% per cent increase in registration fee collections and a minimum increase of $66,000 in gasoline tax revenues to Maine. Increased use of motor vehicles and new registrations in future years will further increase state highway-user tax collections," he said.

The Bureau of Public Roads estimated that Maine will have 262,000 registered motor vehicles at the beginning of 1951, compared with 249,000 at the start of 1950.

"In the course of this year, the Maine motorist will pay an average of about $100 in state and federal levies just because he owns and operates a car or truck. And government receives more and more each year in motorists' taxes as motor vehicle ownership increases and each vehicle travels more miles with the passing of years," he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Christie of Milo recently visited their son, Donald Christie, and family.

It was voted to hold an attendance meeting, with William Chapman and Earl Davis as captains.

ENCOURAGING EARLY CHRISTMAS SEAL SALES

As the 1950 Christmas Seal Sale of the Maine Tuberculosis Association entered the second week, Arthur F Tiffin, Augusta, treasurer of the association, reported that the response of citizens throughout the state appeared encouraging.

"No accurate comparison with figures for last year can be made," Tiffin said, "as returns for some areas are made to the local volunteer chairmen while in other areas contributions are made direct to state headquarters. A statewide report has been requested for December 15.

"However," the association treasurer continued, "the volume of mail received during the early days of the sale at headquarters indicated great interest on the part of the people and if present returns keep up, the fight against tuberculosis should continue at full strength."

Mr Tiffin explained that of the money contributed in Maine, 94 per cent remains within the state for local works which includes X-ray projects, clinics, health education, school health, rehabilitation and in some areas nursing work.

On the remaining 6 per cent, he reported, a generous allotment goes to support the twenty-six research projects currently being maintained by the tuberculous associations of the nation in many leading universities and laboratories. One of these, it was pointed out, is being conducted at the Roscoe B Jackson Memorial Laboratory in Bar Harbor.

"These research projects," Mr Tiffin added, "bring great good to every citizen and community. It is work of this type that adds to the knowledge of doctors and other professional people, and improves methods of control and treatment, which will ultimately lead to the eradication of tuberculosis everywhere."

All citizens are urged to participate in this campaign of the people who added that "Christmas Seals, bought and used, help give everyone a chance to share in the work of saving lives and wiping out this greatest of public health problems."

Mrs John P Howe is chairman of the Bethel Christmas Seal Sale.

Maine Citizens Tax Revision Committee Finds State Now Practicing Deficit Financing

"This is the first of four articles based on the findings of the Governor's tax study committee. The story, written without "an axe to grind," will acquaint Citizen readers with financial condition of the State of Maine and present the committee's conclusions in understandable terms."

"It's later than you think," members of a Maine citizens' tax committee are now telling the State's lawmakers and money-raisers in the Legislature.

They mean that after months of study of State finances, they think the need for a new source of money for the State government, which economic experts have been predicting for "sooner or later," is now ripe.

They mean that after months of study of State finances, they think the need for a new source of money for the State government, which economic experts have been predicting for "sooner or later," is now ripe.

But to cover the $3,500,000 deficit that is the least that is likely to occur in each of the years ahead, economy through efficiency would not be enough. The State would have to do less.

And what would be cut? Should we spend less on highways, see roads that are inadequate for today's cars and trucks stay that way and roads that were neglected during World War II almost to the point of decay never be fixed?

Should we spend less on welfare? Who wants to cut money paid to the lame, the halt, and the blind?

How about education? Shall we stop paying money to cities and towns to help them get better teachers for our youngsters, and watch more and more good teachers go to States where the pay is higher?

There's a sheriff over Uncle Sam too, and one over the State Government. That is you, the voter and tax-payer. When you are going to reckon with Uncle Sam for his red ink financing your tax committee doesn't, but it wants to inform you about the State's deficit soon enough so the legislature can do something about it before the day of reckoning.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare.

The significance of the last election will be the subject of heated discussion for a long time to come, as victor, vanquished, and objective observer alike try to figure out what made the people vote as they did. But regardless of the verdict of history, certain conclusions can be drawn right now with small chance of rebuttal.

First of all, Mr Truman and his "Fair Deal" program took a stunning defeat. It is true that the Democrats have paper-thin majorities in House and Senate. But it seems impossible than any of the more controversial sections of that program can be pushed through while this Congress is in office. The majorities are just two small. A good many of the Democrats are notably unenthusiastic when it comes to the Brannan plan, compulsory government health insurance, regional authorities and administrations, virtually unlimited social security and the rest. They will line up with the strong Republican bloc to stop them.

The defeat of so many Democratic stalwarts rubbed more salt in the Administration's wounds. The loss of such Senators as majority leader Lucas and Tydings and Thomas is a bitter one. Men such as these carried much of the load for the President in his dealings with Congress. They will be extremely difficult to replace. At the moment, there seem to be no willing candidates for majority leader to succeed Mr Lucas. Whoever the choice is, he will have a rugged and thankless job next year.

Perhaps the most unequivocal Truman support of all was Mrs Helen Lahagan Douglas. She lost badly in the California senate race, and it must be remembered that this is a key state, which Mr Truman carried last time. Another blow was for James Roosevelt to go down to overwhelming defeat in his try for governor.

But the Truman administration and the Democratic party were not the only losers in this election. Organized labor, as a political force, took a terrible whipping. The Taft-Hartley Act, passed in 1947, has been a key spur. The CIO AFL high command is still struggling valiantly to beat Senator Taft, whom they regard as their arch-enemy. Up to shortly before the election, they were confident of victory. They felt that, at the worst, Taft would just squeak by. Actually he smothered his opponent with a 400,000-plus majority. He even carried most of the industrial centers where union membership is greatest. In other words, the rank-and-file didn't obey their union officers. And that was true in other states and in other contests, including a number of very important gubernatorial battles.

Another interesting point is that political registrations don't necessarily mean a thing any more. Oregon is a fine example. In that state on the basis of registrations, Democrats now outnumber Republicans by a substantial margin. Yet the GOP, except this election, Republican Senator Morse beat his Democratic opponent by better than three-to-one. Republican Governor McWayne beat his Democratic opponent, a strong pro-Truman man by two-to-one. The people voted for individuals, not party labels.

What caused all this? The international mess, the growing war over government control, spending the feeling held by millions of people that the Administration has been keeping secrets from them, the equally potent feeling that we have carried internalization to an extreme and that

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE THANKSGIVING SERVICE

On Thanksgiving Day a service was held at every Church of Christ, Scientist.

One service was opened with the singing of Hymn 12 . . . Endless thanks to God belong . . .

The First Reader then read the Thanksgiving Proclamation issued by the President of the United States and a Scriptural selection taken from Moses' Song of Thanksgiving in Exodus 15:1, 2, 6, 11, 18.

Following this the congregation was requested to join in a few moments of silent prayer, which was immediately followed by the audible repetition of the Lord's Prayer with its spiritual interpretation as given in the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

Hymn No. 73 "In His Hand is all the power of nations" continued the order of service.

Appropriate to the occasion the subject of the Lesson-Sermon was "Thanksgiving", the Golden Text being from Psalms: "O that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men! And let them sacrifice the sacrifices of thanksgiving, and declare his works with rejoicing!" (Psalms 107: 21, 22).

One of the Scriptural passages contained in the Lesson-Sermon was also from Psalms and another from First Peter "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all the diseases; Who redeemeth thy life from destruction; who crowneth thee with loving-kindness and tender mercies: For the eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and his ears are open unto their prayers" (Psalms 103:2-4 & Peter 3:12).

Among the correlative readings from the Christian Science textbook, were the following selections: "Spirit blesses man, but man cannot tell whence it cometh" By it the sick are comforted, and the ailing are reformed. These are the effects of one universal God, the invisible good dwelling in eternal Silence. To those leaning on the sustaining infinite, today is big with blessings" (pages 78: 28-32 & Preface VII: 1-2).

After a solo entitled "Internation, Our Father," brief testimonies were given by members of the congregation, expressing gratitude for healing, regeneration, and spiritual growth as a result of the application of Christian Science.

In closing, the congregation joined in singing Hymn No. 169 in the Christian Science Hymnal ". . . Our tribute, Thanksgiving, with glad hearts we bring" after which the First Reader read the Scientific Statement of Being from Christian Science textbook, page 468 and the correlative Scripture according to John 3:1-3 A benediction from II Cor. 2:14 concluded the service.

Similar services in observance of Thanksgiving Day were held by The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, and its branch es throughout the United States, Canada, Great Britain, and in many other countries.

It is just not possible for us to support and police the whole world the ominous turn of events in Korea, such forces as these, it seems now, caused this great revolution in voting last November?

Say you saw it in the CITIZEN.

TAX REVISION from page one way of government services to you the tax-payer.

So what's the answer? The committee's answer isn't original, but it works. They advocate a new tax for Maine.

At present your State government already gets money from several sources, although all sources finally end up in your pocketbook.

Money comes from the real estate tax, indirectly through your city or town; from the gasoline tax and from registration and license fees; from the liquor and cigarette tax; and from a few other sources.

All of these sources, members of the committee decided, are being taxed for all they are worth already. Any more increases in any of them big enough to cover the need would also be unfair to some people, because not all residents own property, not all drive cars or smoke or guzzle.

Nor could committee members find any reason to think that State expenses would go down of their own accord.

Why is this? Why are you spending more and more out of your paycheck every week nowadays for your food, clothes, tires and what not?

The State, in short, has to buy all the same things you buy: It buys food for hospital inmates and prisoners, it buys tires for State trucks and cars, and all the rest.

It costs your State government more just like it costs you more. You have had to have more income in the last five or ten years to buy those things, and so has the State.

What prices — the high cost of living we've swabbed about — will do in the next two years no one knows for sure. Maybe they'll go down. But no one with enough knowledge to venture a prediction has prophesied any drop in prices. The plain fact is that all probability your food and the State's food is going to cost even more in the years to come.

(The next article will tell more about why we can't expect more money by raising present taxes.)

Maine, with its unusual concentration of natural resources, stands to benefit more from conservation programs than do most other States in the Nation.

SUCCESSFUL PARENTHOOD

MARY ANN
EDWARDS
Associate Editor
Parents Magazine

THE CHILD'S FIRST IDEA of what is right and what is wrong is dictated by his own comfort—what he wants is right, what he doesn't like is wrong. Gradually he learns through their loving care that what his parents say is right is really right. But this is only the first step in character building, which is the slow process of learning to judge the right for oneself, and then to do it.

By the time the child goes to school he should have had some experience in making his own judgments of right and wrong. If he has been kept to strict obedience to his parents' commands it will be hard for him to decide on the proper conduct when something out of the ordinary happens. For example, suppose he has been told that he must come straight home from school as his mother won't be concerned about his whereabouts. Then one afternoon on the way home he finds a neighbor child crying because her puppy is lost. Knowing something of the habits of wayward puppies, he is baffled feeling that he is forced because he is little, not because he is right.

Learning that he must accept a certain amount of being misjudged without feeling resentment is a most useful character attribute. It helps particularly, for example, when teachers refuse to see the virtue in a child's having spent extra hours in unrequired reading on an assignment that interested him, to the neglect of an arithmetic problem (though in later life this gift for research will be valued).

It helps in accepting the fact that the slow child is given more help by the teacher than he is. A feeling of being treated unfairly, harbored all through childhood, will likely cause trouble in adult life. So help your child knock off any chips you may detect on his shoulder.

Parents are familiar with most
